

A Plethora of Plesiosaurs – Life in the Jurassic Sea

The Etches Collection on the classic Jurassic Coast contains a unique, world-class assemblage of fossil material collected exclusively from the Kimmeridge Clay Formation and within a restricted area around Kimmeridge. The collection is thus a time slice illustrating the ecosystem of this Upper Jurassic marine environment.

This talk will discuss exciting new Plesiosaur material that has recently been added to the museum, together with examples of the marine fauna that co-existed with these animals and evidence of their interactions.

