

Volcanoes: past, present and future.

In this illustrated talk, I will introduce some of the major volcanic eruptions in history, explaining their geological significance and their wider impacts. I will explain how retelling the stories of past eruptions may help communities to prepare for the future, and will close with a quick survey of 'volcanoes to watch out for'.